MONTHLY BUY-BACK & BURN MECHANIC

The KEYS ecosystem is a robust collection of products ranging from various NFT collections and a real estate focused metaverse, to an asset exchange and rental platform. Each of the products in the KEYS ecosystem will generate revenue through royalties and transaction fees which propel our organization forward.

Our team strives to embrace the community aspect of blockchain to its full potential. To reflect this ethos, KEYS Token is committed to using 18% of all revenues generated by products in the KEYS ecosystem to buy-back and burn tokens in circulating supply by sending them to a burn address. A regular burn will occur on the 8th day of each month.

Considering the number of KEYS burned is directly tied to the activity and user-ship of products within the KEYS ecosystem, this feature will add a significant deflationary aspect to KEYS which will in-turn positively impact price. Essentially, our holders and community benefit as the KEYS product ecosystem grows. To start the journey strong, our team has already completed the first buy-back and burn using profits generated through KEYCard royalties.

THE KEYS STORY.

The past two years have been some of the most unpredictable yet influential years of our lives. For many, this was a period of change and uncertainty. The way we interact, communicate, and do business with one another changed instantly—and possibly forever. Yet, these shifts in human behaviour created opportunities that once seemed impossible to unlock.

Uncertain times caused five separate souls on five completely different trajectories to stop in their tracks, reposition, and rediscover their purpose. Each one of them fell in love with blockchain technology as they believed it was a direct reflection of their deepest core values and life stories. This shared passion ultimately brought their minds together and ignited the idea for the KEYS ecosystem. Through combining networks, resources, assets, and—most importantly—time, these five souls sparked the beginning of a groundbreaking story.

Coming from diverse backgrounds of success, each of the KEYS founders brings a unique set of skills and attributes to the table. Their collective talent pool includes development experience at publicly traded companies like Amazon and operational experience as a COO at a multi-million-dollar AI start-up. The team has extensive chart and trading knowledge as owners of a registered crypto hedge fund. KEYS also has access to a global digital distribution network reaching upwards of 300 million people per month through accounts such @houses on Instagram. Together, this combination of knowledge and resources positions the KEYS team to change the world as we know it.

Every successful project is comprised of individuals who understand the value of teamwork, collective growth, and building something bigger than any one individual. As the saying goes, if you want to go fast go alone, but if you want to go far go together.
